Conference 'Tourism in the Global South: Landscapes, Identities and Development', Lisbon, Portugal

Tourism can be seen as a consumer of places but also as a dynamic force that creates places (Crang). Its power resides in its capacity to transform landscapes, economies, peoples' lifestyle and cultures, and in shaping identities, ideas, behaviors, by establishing new networks of power, forging new ideas and representations, and creating discourses of place and difference.

Above all tourism is about encounters: encounters between people and places, and between people (Crouch). Often these encounters are unbalanced, uneven, destabilizing, resulting in exploitation and abuse. But at times they are productive, creating wealth, and forging alliances between distant people.

This conference intends to meet and discuss new research ideas on the tourism impacts in the Global South, focusing namely on the construction and transformation of landscapes through tourism.

3rd International Graduate Student Conference on Latin America and the Caribbean

Forging ahead with its commitment to promote interdisciplinary research concerned with the economic development, political and social organization and cultural and artistic contributions of Latin America and the Caribbean, York University's Centre for Research on Latin America and the Caribbean (CERLAC) is hosting the 3rd International Graduate Student Conference on Latin America the Caribbean between 15th to 16th of March 2013 at York University in Toronto.

This conference brings together scholars working on Latin America and the Caribbean to share their research in a collegial, professional and friendly environment.

The conference organizing committee welcomes papers, presentation proposals and panel proposals on research focused on Latin America and the Caribbean.

We are seeking a broad range of playful, critical, engaging, diverse, and dynamic themes that span across various disciplines including, but not limited to, social sciences, humanities, fine arts, environmental studies and law and business.

Themes from previous conferences include indigeneity, literature, inter-state relations, violence, identity, language, development, gender, fair trade, diaspora, memory and neoliberalism.

ECAS 2013 - 5th European Conference on African Studies 'African Dynamics in a Multipolar World', Lisbon, Portugal

The fifth European Conference on African Studies (ECAS 5) will take place in Lisbon, Portugal, on June 26 to 28, 2013.

It will be organized by the Centro de Estudos Africanos - Instituto Universitário de Lisboa (Center of African Studies of the University Institute of Lisbon) on behalf of AEGIS, the Africa-Europe Group for Interdisciplinary Studies. Its general theme will be 'African Dynamics in a Multipolar World'.

All proposals must be made via the online form. Proposals should consist of a panel title, a (very) short abstract of <300 characters, and an abstract of 250 words. The proposal may also include the names of any chairs or discussants, although these can be added subsequently using the login environment, Cocoa. Please use the convention of Firstname Lastname (Institution). If these roles are to be taken by convenors, then please do not enter your own names there - as it's implicit that this will be the case where other names are not listed.

Call for papers: 19th November 2012 to 18th January 2013

Accepted papers: 1st February and then 1st March (2nd round)

Colonial (Mis)understandings: Portugal and Europe in Global Perspective, 1450-1900, Universidade Nova de Lisboa, Lisboa, Portugal

Since the 15th century, an extended geographical, natural, scientific and political reality has posed a continuous challenge to the ways in which the world has been understood historically. And misunderstood.

The aim of this conference is to address the processes of interpretation, both explicit and implicit, recognized and obscured, that were initiated by European Expansion.

Imperial spaces, whether governed by the Portuguese, Spanish, Dutch, English, French or other Europeans, set the stage for contact, confrontation, and conflict in colonized spaces such as Brazil, Mexico, Indonesia, India, or Martinique where regimes of translation, circulation, and resistance emerged. How many implicit misunderstandings or tacit silences characterized human interactions in the face of a new, shared, and connected reality?

In recent years concepts such as the 'first globalization', 'global history' and 'world history', have attempted to connect these multiple realities. But how have these approaches been understood and put into practice? And what challenges do they pose to scholars today? Intellectual production has been prolific and this is an opportune moment to reflect upon these questions...

The Call for Panels closes on November 30, 2012.
Call for Papers will open on December 20, 2012.

Call for Papers - Colonial and Postcolonial Urban Planning in Africa, Lisbon, Portugal

The Conference – Colonial and Postcolonial Urban Planning in Africa – aims to re-examine the history of colonial urban planning in Africa and its legacies in the post-independence period, to learn from contemporary African scholarship, and to discuss how postcolonial urban planning cultures can actually address these urban challenges and contribute effectively for the development of resilient and sustainable cities in Africa.

The Conference, to be held in Lisbon, in September 2013, organized by the Institute of Geography and Spatial Planning - University of Lisbon and the International Planning History Society (IPHS), will explore two key themes in the history of urban planning in Africa: Theme I - 19th and 20th Century Colonial Urban Planning in Africa; Theme II - Post-colonial Urban Planning in Africa.

In both themes we welcome country and cross-country approaches, studies of individual cities, and the comparison of African cities with one another.

We invite researchers, planners and postgraduate students to present critical analyses of the multifaceted urban planning experience in Africa. All submissions will be peer-reviewed for content and appropriateness to this conference.

Abstracts are due before January 15, 2013.

Notices of acceptance will be sent by e-mail on February 15, 2013.

Regional Integration, Identity and Citizenship in the Greater Horn of Africa

The Greater Horn of Africa (GHA) is engulfed by three interrelated crises: various inter-state wars, civil wars, and inter-communal conflicts; an economic crisis manifested in widespread debilitating poverty, chronic food insecurity and famines; and environmental degradation that is ravaging the region.

The contributors to this volume address the need for regional integration in the GHA.

They identify those factors that can foster integration, such as the proper management of equitable citizenship rights, as well as examining those that impede it, including the region's largely ineffective integration scheme, IGAD, and explore how the former can be strengthened and the latter transformed; explain how regional integration can mitigate the conflicts; and examine how integration can help to energise the region's economy.

Zimbabwe's Fast-Track Land Reform

The Fast-Track Land Reform Programme in Zimbabwe has emerged as a highly contested reform process both nationally and internationally. The image of it has all too often been that of the widespread displacement and subsequent replacement of various people, agricultural-related production systems, facets and processes. The reality, however, is altogether more complex.

Providing new, in-depth and much-needed empirical research, and based on a broader geographical scope than any previous study carried out on the subject, Zimbabwe's Fast-Track Land Reform examines how processes such as land acquisition, allocation, transitional production outcomes, social life, gender and tenure, have influenced and been influenced by the forces driving the programme.

A landmark work on a subject of considerable controversy.

POLICY DIALOGUE NO. 8
THE AFRICAN UNION INSTITUTE

Supporting African peace operations. Policy Dialogue 8

This report features a collection of papers that look at the current and future state of African Union-centered (AU) peace operations.

In particular, it looks at four challenges these regional operations face:

- 1) the African Union Commission's limited capacity to plan and manage peace operations;
- 2) insufficient political engagement by African member states with AU peace operations;
- 3) the short-termism and self-interest of some of the AU's partners;
- 4) the need for the UN Security Council's permanent members to embrace a shared AU-UN strategic vision.

To help address these challenges, the report concludes by providing specific policy recommendations.

Self-Determination and Secessionism in Somaliland and South Sudan: Challenges to Postcolonial State-building

This paper analyses the notion of self-determination and secession by adopting a comparative perspective on two case studies, namely Somaliland and South Sudan. Somaliland declared its independence in 1991 following the collapse of the Somali state.

Since then, Somaliland has been making relentless efforts to secure recognition from the international community. South Sudan successfully negotiated the right to exercise self-determination, a right that was formalised in the Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA) signed between the ruling National Congress Party (NCP) and the Sudan People's Liberation Movement (SPLM).

The people of South Sudan held a referendum and voted overwhelmingly for secession, with formal independence being achieved on 9 July 2011. Yet Somaliland has failed to achieve international recognition. This paper interrogates this discrepancy.

POLICY NOTE Series

1. PN 2012/2 | Angola's Sustainable Growth and Regional Role beyond the Elections: Angola's economic boom averaging about 17 % per annum, is centred on its extractive oil industry and has made Angola one of the fastest growing economies in sub-Saharan Africa and the world. With national peace providing stability and a strong military to negotiate regional threats, Angola is expected to consolidate its position as a regional power commensurate.

2. PN 2012/3 | Electoral Violence in Africa: In the time period 2012–2013, over 20 national elections and two constitutional referendums are scheduled in Africa. In several of these elections, violence is anticipated to play a prominent role. There is great urgency to support the establishment of effective and legitimate electoral institutions and electoral frameworks and others...

3. PN 2012/4 | Urban youth and post-conflict Africa: On policy priorities: Youth in urban areas of post-war African countries lead lives that are not very different from non-post-war societies. In fact it is often hard to separate battle-hardened ex-combatants from street-hardened urban youth in general. In this context, youth is a social category of people living in volatile and dire life conditions rather than a group defined by age.

The Freetown Bond - A Life under Two Flags

Eldred Durosimi Jones is known internationally as being central to the establishment of the study of African writing in the new universities of Africa, Britain and North America. The annual African Literature Today of which he was founding editor in 1968, is a key marker of this growth.

In addition, his book Othello's Countrymen introduced Africa into Shakespeare studies. Born in 1925, the account of his early years gives a vivid picture of growing up in Freetown in the latter days of British colonial rule.

He was an exceptional young man who was able to take advantage of the unusual style of this city-state. He lost his sight in his middle years and this book, like all his later written work, has been brought to the page by his wife Marjorie Jones. Her gift for story-telling about their lives as Sierra Leone was gripped by civil war has added to this highly individual book.

Bitter Fruit

Silas Ali, a former political activist, now a middle-aged civil servant working on the final TRC report, is shopping in the Killarney Mall, Johannesburg, when he bumps into a ghost from his past: Lieutenant François du Boise, a retired security policeman.

This chance encounter brings back the memory that Silas and his wife, Lydia, have been avoiding for twenty years.

The past erupts into the present, cracking the shell of normality that encloses their family life.

This is the story of Silas and Lydia, and especially of their son, Mikey - a university student with a curious mind and a calculating will - as their relationships fracture and their lives go off in new and surprising directions.

Frantz Fanon: A Biography

New edition, updated with new historical material.

Based on extensive and original research, this is the most complete and objective biography of Fanon yet written.

It chips away the myths that have grown up around him and reveals Fanon to be a complex figure.

Macey places Fanon in the context of the French Caribbean, with its history of slavery and racism, and traces his intellectual career as a political thinker and psychiatrist with great care, setting it against the background of post-war French culture.

Crisis in the Horn of Africa: Politics, Piracy and the Threat of Terror

The most dangerous corner of Africa is its north-east corner where instability reigns and terrorism thrives on the antagonisms of all of its governments. This region, comprising Ethiopia, Sudan and now South Sudan, Somalia, Djibouti and Eritrea, and stretching to include Kenya and Uganda, is a pivotal geopolitical pressure point in world politics. It stands at the hinge of Africa and the Middle East.

It was of vital interest to the superpowers during the Cold War and remains, in the post-Cold War period, a key area in international relations and a major source of mineral wealth, while its sufferings have been described as a scar on the conscience of humanity. But seemingly endemic political chaos, failed states, terrorism and international piracy have dealt a death blow to the ambitions of the US and her allies in the international community to further a New World Order of liberal democracy.

Durban's Climate Gamble: Trading Carbon, Betting the Earth

Durban, South Africa is a city of immense beauty. It is also a city with deep environmental scars caused by industrial giants and an insensitive government. As the host city for the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change conference - COP 17 - Durban will be at the centre of the world's climate negotiations.

This book takes the reader on a journey from Durban's apartheid roots to its somewhat jaded present, passing cultural icons and political battles while narrating socio-economic and environmental conflict and the reinvention of the city's tradition of social protest.

The book looks at the environmental injustices the Earth will have to endure in the face of the demise of the Kyoto protocol, and it critically examines COP 17's faith in finding market solutions for market problems while gambling with the Earth's future.

An Enterprise Map of Tanzania

In the first decade of the new millennium, Tanzania's gross domestic product doubled in real terms, making it one of the handful of sub-Saharan economies that have shown strong and sustained growth in recent years.

This growth was, moreover, broad based, with manufacturing output growing slightly faster than the economy as a whole.

To maintain this rate of growth over the next decade, Tanzania's industrial capabilities will need to advance in a quite substantial way.

The foundations for this advance lie in the current capabilities of Tanzania's industrial companies.

The purpose of this volume is to set out a detailed description, industry by industry, of those capabilities.

Photographic Guide to the Wildflowers of South Africa

Revised edition. South Africa has a rich flora of around 19 000 different wildflower species.

Several of these, especially proteas, gerberas, agapanthus and clivias, are now internationally known, while the brightly coloured flowers of freesias, nerinas, sparaxis and chinchids have become favourites in gardens throughout the world.

An easy-to-use format divides the country into three main wildflower regions, Grassland and Savannah, Fynbos and Namaqualand, grouping the species into each region.

Each of the almost 900 species is illustrated and described, with information on its common and scientific names, habitat, distribution map, flowering times and local uses.

African Politics in Comparative Perspective

Revised and expanded edition. Reviews fifty years of research on politics in Africa.

It synthesizes insights from different scholarly approaches and offers an original interpretation of the knowledge accumulated over the years.

It discusses how research on African politics relates to the study of politics in other regions.

It focuses on such key issues as the legacy of a movement approach to political change, the nature of the state, the economy of a location, the policy deficit, the agrarian question, gender and politics and ethnicity and conflict.

It ends by reviewing what scholars agree upon and what the accumulated knowledge offers as insights for more effective political and policy reforms.

Africa Yearbook VOLUME 8: Politics, Economy and Society South of the Sahara in 2011

The Africa Yearbook covers major domestic political developments, the foreign policy and socio-economic trends in sub-Saharan Africa – all related to developments in one calendar year.

The Yearbook contains articles on all sub-Saharan states, each of the four sub-regions (West, Central, Eastern, Southern Africa) focusing on major cross-border developments and subregional organizations as well as one article on continental developments and one on European-African relations.

While the articles have thorough academic quality, the Yearbook is mainly oriented to the requirements of a large range of target groups: students, politicians, diplomats, administrators, journalists, teachers, practitioners in the field of development aid as well as business people.

Health and Ritual in Morocco. Conceptions of the Body and Healing Practices

In Health and Ritual in Morocco, Josep Lluís Mateo Dieste analyzes the many notions of the body that appear in various Moroccan medical and religious systems.

Viewing these issues from anthropological and historical perspectives to the development of Islamic medicine in Morocco, this study highlights the elements of power that define these representations and practices. Mateo Dieste shows that most of the healing rituals challenge the strict division between physical and mental afflictions.

Health and Ritual in Morocco provides a valuable structure for understanding Moroccan conceptions of the person, rites of passage, gender differences, and reproductive practices. It offers insights into the weight of the notions of impurity and purification of the body in the daily life of the contemporary Moroccan population.

David Griffiths and the Missionary “History of Madagascar”

In 1838, William Ellis of the LMS published a History of Madagascar — considered a key primary source for nineteenth-century Malagasy history. Four years later, David Griffiths, longest serving member of the Madagascar Mission, published Hanes Madagascar (“History of Madagascar”) in Welsh. Campbell’s study explores the intriguing relationship between these works and their authors.

It analyses the role of Griffiths; presents evidence that much of Ellis’ History derived from Griffiths’ research; and presents the first ever translation of Hanes Madagascar (with extensive annotations).

This study suggests that the tensions arising from the different cultural perceptions of Welsh and English missionaries moulded the destiny of the Madagascar mission. It will hopefully inspire re-evaluation of other missions and their relationship to British imperial policy.

Travel Sketches from Liberia Johann Büttikofer's 19th Century Rainforest Explorations in West Africa

In the 1880s a Swiss-born biologist, Johann Büttikofer, while working for the Royal Museum of Natural History in Leiden, The Netherlands, carried out two extended expeditions to Liberia, West Africa.

In 1890 he published the results of his work in German in two-volumes, entitled Reisebilder aus Liberia (Travel Sketches from Liberia).

Büttikofer worked extensively in the forested regions of coastal Liberia and made the acquaintance of many prominent Liberians and other personalities of that era. His zoological work there is actually exceeded by his detailed descriptions of the state of Liberia some 50 years following its colonization by freed American slaves and their descendents.

It constitutes the first comprehensive monograph on the Republic of Liberia.

Fusion Foodways of Africa's Gold Coast in the Atlantic Era

As most people in Atlantic-era West Africa — as in contemporary Europe and the Americas — were farmers, fields and gardens were the primary terrain where they engaged the opportunities and challenges of nascent globalization.

Agricultural changes and culinary cross-currents from the Gold Coast indicate that Africans engaged the Atlantic world not with passivity but as full partners with others on continents whose histories have enjoyed longer, and greater, scholarly attention.

The most important 'seeds of change' are not to be found in the DNA of crops and critters carried across the seas but instead in the creativity and innovation of the people who engaged the challenges and opportunities of the Atlantic World.

Conquête ottomane de l'Égypte (1517). Arrière-plan, impact, échos

Conquête ottomane de l'Égypte (1517) est le premier ouvrage collectif consacré à la victoire de Selīm Ier sur les Mamelouks, qui a fait du sultanat ottoman l'unique puissance musulmane en Méditerranée orientale, et ravalé l'Égypte au rang de province. Il en renouvelle l'approche en faisant appel à des sources ottomanes, arabes et occidentales très variées.

Les contributions réunies par Benjamin Lellouch et Nicolas Michel s'attachent à mesurer les transformations structurelles qu'a induites l'événement dans la société, les pouvoirs, la culture littéraire, artistique et matérielle en Égypte.

Elles explorent ses antécédents et son impact géopolitique, et restituent les échos, bruyants puis assourdis, qu'il a suscités, au Proche-Orient, en Italie, et plus généralement en Méditerranée.

Governing the Empire: Provincial Administration in the Almohad Caliphate (1224-1269)

Critical edition, translation, and study of manuscript 4752 of the Hasaniyya Library in Rabat containing 77 taqadim ("appointments") | In this book, the authors edit, translate, and study an Arabic manuscript of the Royal Library of Rabat, containing 77 appointments of provincial officials. The Almohad Caliphs were the first Berbers to unite the whole Maghrib and the Iberian Peninsula under an imperial ideology elaborated at the end of the 12th C.E. by the most famous scholars, such as Averroes.

This peripheral Islamic dynasty produced a pragmatic documentation that provides exceptional information about the administrative, political, ideological, and religious organisation of the largest medieval European-African Empire.

Colonial Space: Spatiality in the Discourse of German South West Africa, 1884-1915

Noyes demonstrates the agency of literature in the structuring of colonial space using a series of colonial texts from German South West Africa in the period 1884-1915.

The social production of space in colonialization is achieved through establishing and manipulating boundaries.

The production of space is itself an ordering process, and as such, a process of civilization. However, the detailed analysis of the colonial discourse reveals how colonial texts can be used to counter their author's claims to universal truth and a civilizing mission.

Drawing upon recent work by Lacan, Deleuze and Guattari, Derrida and Foucault, as well as current debate on colonial discourse, Noyes explores the concept of spatiality as constructed under the conditions of colonialization.

Neo-Liberalism, Interventionism, and the Developmental State

In a single volume, this book uniquely scopes the spectrum of the interplay of politics, history, government, economics and business in the development - or perhaps underdevelopment - of Africa.

With breadth, depth and swiftness, the authors chronicle past development efforts, discuss successes and failures and worm their way through an array of issues using the most 'ambitious' and recent development initiative - the New Partnership for Africa's Development (NEPAD) - as a platform for articulating Africa's future.

Journal of Religion in Africa

The Journal of Religion in Africa, founded in 1967 by Andrew Walls, is interested in all religious traditions and all their forms, in every part of Africa, and it is open to every methodology.

Its contributors include scholars working in history, anthropology, sociology, political science, missiology, literature and related disciplines. It occasionally publishes religious texts in their original African language.

Presenting a unique forum for the debate of theoretical issues in the analysis of African religion past and present, the Journal of Religion in Africa also encourages the development of new methodologies.

It reviews a very wide range of books and regularly publishes longer review articles on works of special interest.

Social Sciences and Mission

The journal Social Sciences and Missions / Sciences sociales et missions provides a forum for exploration of the social and political influence of Christian missions worldwide. Christian missions represent a unique site of observation for the study of modern societies, in the “north” as well as in the “south”. This is the reason why missions constitute the “prime material” of the journal Social Sciences & Missions.

The aim of the journal is not to study missions for themselves, but rather as “total social facts”, an idiom, which history, anthropology, sociology or political science ... read more can use to analyse reality and give it meaning. This constitutes the originality of our approach – to the best of our knowledge, Social Sciences & Missions is the only social sciences journal dedicated to this object of study.

One and a Half Centuries of the University in Nigeria, 1868-2011: A Historical Account

Describes the journey of the university from its origin in the European Middle Ages through the time when it was first demanded in west Africa in 1868, to 1948 when the first university, the University College, Ibadan, was established in Nigeria, to 1979 when the first State University, the Rivers State University of Science and Technology, was established through 1999 when the first three private universities, namely Igbinedion, Babcock, and Madonna were established.

The book looks in separate chapters at admission into Nigerian universities, the industrial training of students for the Nigerian labour market, the National Youth Corp scheme (NYSC), examination malpractices and cult activities in Nigerian Universities, the courses given in Nigerian universities and many others...

Understanding Organizational Sustainability Through African Proverbs: Insights for Leaders and Facilitators

African cultural heritage, passed on from generation to generation has been the source of guidance for African communities in times of peace, uncertainty, birth, life and death. In this book the power of traditional wisdom contained in African proverbs is directed at organizational development and change.

The result is a fresh new perspective on organizational management with important lessons for leaders, consultants, volunteers and expatriates working or preparing to work in Africa.

Rooted in proven practice, the book specifically addresses the needs of leaders and consultants in African organizations seeking to implement performance improvement and organizational change, and contains proverb-driven assessment templates for use in workshop situations.

Apartheid on a Black Isle: Removal and Resistance in Alexandra, South Africa

In this single square mile hemmed in by White areas, residents engaged in what is arguably the most multi-faceted, inventive, and versatile strategy of resistance during the 1970s.

This book brings to the fore the definitive but under-appreciated role that Alexandra played in advancing human rights. Using their anufactured space, Alexandrans revolutionized the South African freedom struggle by fertilizing the underground movement, by joining in solidarity with Soweto during the student uprising and by finding unique ways to grieve.

This book explores and introduces ordinary Alexandrans whose narratives challenged preconceived notions of resistance, identity, gender and space.

Belgium and The Congo, 1885-1980

While the impact of a colonising metropole on subjected territories has been widely scrutinized, the effect of empire on the colonising country has long been neglected. Recently, many studies have examined the repercussions of their respective empires on colonial powers such as the United Kingdom and France. Belgium and its African empire have been conspicuously absent from this discussion.

This book attempts to fill this gap. Belgium and the Congo, 1885-1980 examines the effects of colonialism on the domestic politics, diplomacy and economics of Belgium, from 1880 when King Leopold II began the country's expansionist enterprises in Africa to the 1980s, well after the Congo's independence in June of 1960. By examining the colonial impact on its mother country Belgium, this study also contributes to a better understanding of Congo's past and present.

A Brief History of Rights in South Africa

South Africa's transition to a post-apartheid democracy has been widely celebrated as a triumph for global human rights.

Yet, less than a generation after the achievement of freedom, the future of human rights and constitutionalism in South Africa is uncertain.

This book seeks to explain how and why the apartheid government and the ANC both 'discovered' human rights in the mid-1980s.

It does so by exploring several rights 'regimes' over two centuries: African nationalist, liberal, and republican.

Although fragmented and episodic, these traditions help explain why rights discourse and constitutionalism gained broad acceptance in the last decade of the twentieth century, and momentarily aligned South Africa with broader global trends.

Emotional and Ethical Challenges for Field Research in Africa: The Story Behind the Findings

Academic literature rarely gives an account of the ethical and emotional challenges the researcher is confronted with before, during and after being in the field.

Nonetheless, they deserve proper attention, to help fathom the inevitable bias in the researchers' position in the field and to assess the quality of the research findings.

In addition, they can show that the façade of 'scientific validity and neutrality' often hides a pragmatic approach that shapes the research process.

Presenting their personal accounts, a variety of researchers who have done field research in the Great Lakes Region of Central Africa explore the challenges faced when engaging in local-level research in difficult situations.

The Lion Sleeps at Night: And Other Stories of Africa

Malan's remarkable chronicle of South Africa's halting, sometimes violent, steps and missteps, taken as blacks and whites try to build a new country.

The collection comprises twenty-three pieces; the title story investigates the provenance of the world famous song The Lion Sleeps Tonight, which Malan traces back to a Zulu singer named Solomon Linda who recorded a song called Mbube in the 1930s, which went on to be covered by Pete Seeger, REM, and Phish, and was incorporated into the musical The Lion King.

In other stories, Malan follows the trial of Winnie Mandela; writes about the last Afrikaner, an old Boer woman who, as a child, trekked north into Tanzania and settled on the slopes of Mount Meru and plunges into the explosive controversy over President Mbeki's AIDS policies of the 1990s.

Migration in the Service of African Development

Fifteen chapters are included here in this compendium in honour of the Nigerian migration scholar Professor Aderanti Adepaju.

Though the authors come from diverse disciplinary backgrounds: geography, demography, sociology and law they all work within the fields of internal and international migration in Africa.

Chapters on Uganda, Kenya, Botswana, Nigeria and Mali are devoted to aspects of internal migration, while those on African emigration to Mexico and migration between Burkina Faso and Côte d'Ivoire address various aspects of international migration.

Nigerian Copyright Law and Practice: Second Edition

Drawing from his broad experience in policy formulation, administration, legislative reforms and the teaching of copyright and building on extensive research across many jurisdictions, the author, in thirteen chapters, carefully distils a body of principles to set the path for Nigerian copyright jurisprudence.

Although the full report of Nigerian cases which appeared as an appendix to the first edition is now being published separately as Nigerian Copyright Cases, this edition offers critical and insightful analysis of these cases.

It also contains a complete set of the extant copyright statutes, including the 1911 and 1970 Copyright Acts, as well as subsidiary legislations many of which are not contained in the Laws of the Federation.

Reforming the Unreformable: Lessons from Nigeria

Corrupt, mismanaged, and seemingly hopeless: that's how the international community viewed Nigeria in the early 2000s. Then Nigeria implemented a sweeping set of economic and political changes and began to reform the unreformable.

This book tells the story of how a dedicated and politically committed team of reformers set out to fix a series of broken institutions, and in the process repositioned Nigeria's economy in ways that helped create a more diversified springboard for steadier long-term growth.

The author, Harvard- and MIT-trained economist Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala, currently Nigeria's Coordinating Minister for the Economy and Minister of Finance and formerly Managing Director of the World Bank, was a crucial player in her country's economic reforms.

The Ringtone and the Drum: Travels in the World's Poorest Countries

Tucked away in a remote part of Africa, Sierra Leone, Guinea-Bissau and Burkina Faso, three of the world's poorest countries, are in the throes of great upheaval. Globalisation has shown their people that a more comfortable life is possible, but as they strive to attain it, climate change, the population boom, the tyrants of the old guard and the firm grip of tradition block their way.

The clash between old and new is explosive. Civil wars erupt without warning, with drugged up rebels fighting over blood diamonds, gold or a humble bowl of rice. Al Qaeda has infiltrated Burkina Faso.

Colombian drug gangs have overrun Guinea-Bissau. Christian and Muslim fanatics battle for African souls, preparing their converts for Armageddon. Here Weston dives into this maelstrom. In an often-unsettling adventure, he travels around the three countries and immerses himself in local life.

Summoning the Rains: Third FEMRITE Regional Residency for African Women Writers

One of the greatest challenges faced by African women writers is finding the time and the space to write. In November 2011 the third FEMRITE African Women Writers Residency alleviated this challenge for 15 women writers from 11 different countries across the continent.

The writers from Kenya, Uganda, Malawi, Zimbabwe, Namibia, Tunisia, Ghana, Nigeria, South Africa, Cameroon, and Botswana gathered in Kampala, Uganda for two weeks.

This anthology is the product of the writing developed before and during the residency.

The short stories included are told from different perspectives, with varied voices, some experienced, others less so, but all told with freshness and honesty.

S IS for Samora: A Lexical Biography of Samora Machel and the Mozambican Dream

Samora Machel led FRELIMO, the Mozambican Liberation Front, to victory against Portuguese colonialism in 1974, and the following year became independent Mozambique's first President.

He died eleven years later in a mysterious plane crash.

Drawing on stories, speeches, documents, and the memories of those who knew him, this biography presents the many different faces of the man Nelson Mandela called a true African revolutionary.

The book examines the discourse of equality, liberty and comradeship that flourished during the 1960s and 1970s in the liberation struggles of the countries of southern Africa, in the face of the dominant rhetoric of the cold war.

South Africa's Gold Mines and the Politics of Silicosis

South Africa's gold mines are the largest and historically among the most profitable in the world. Yet at what human cost?

This book reveals how the mining industry, abetted by a minority state, hid a pandemic of silicosis for almost a century and allowed miners infected with tuberculosis to spread disease to rural communities in South Africa and to labour-sending states.

In the 20th century, South African mines twice faced a crisis over silicosis, which put its workers at risk of contracting pulmonary tuberculosis, often fatal. The first crisis, 1896-1912, saw the mining industry invest heavily in reducing dust and South Africa became renowned for its mine safety. The second began in 2000 with mounting scientific evidence that the disease rate among miners is more than a hundred times higher than officially acknowledged.

Naming the Land

This book encompasses a history of identity-building amongst Khwe San people, and of contestations for authority over land and natural resources in Namibia's West Caprivi.

The politics of authority in this contested borderland area were significantly shaped by state and NGO interventions into local institutions and land use between the late 1930s and 2006.

Julie J. Taylor pays close attention to the role of NGOs in these processes. She shows that, in their relationship with West Caprivi's residents, NGOs unintentionally contributed towards the hardening and politicising of ethnic difference, including through the implementation of land mapping projects.

At the same time, in their relationship with the state, NGOs often worked to 'depoliticise' struggles over authority, thus inadvertently reinforcing the state's authority in the area.

Sukuma Labor Songs from Western Tanzania

This volume is an interpretive analysis of a collection of 335 song texts treated as primary historical sources.

The collection highlights the cultural practices that link music with labor in Sukuma communities in northwestern Tanzania.

These linkages are evident in the music of the elephant, snake, and porcupine hunting associations that flourished in the precolonial epoch, in the nineteenth-century regional and long-distance porter associations, and in the farmer associations that have proliferated since the beginning of the twentieth century.

Acting primarily as an interpretive editor, the ... read more author collaborated with several Tanzanian scholars and translators towards fine-tuning the translation of these texts into English, and gathered testimonies in order to create succinct interpretive statements about the songs.

A África e suas representações no(s) livro(s) escolar(es) de Geografia no Brasil - 1890-2003

O presente estudo analisa o conteúdo relativo ao continente africano no livro escolar. O recorte temporal abrange desde a introdução de conteúdos sobre a África nos manuais de Geografia, em 1890, pela reforma educacional Benjamin Constant, até a implementação da obrigatoriedade desse conteúdo no currículo básico em 2003, com a Lei n.º 10.639/03.

A análise está dividida em quatro partes, abordando um livro didático por período, priorizando aqueles que atingiram um maior número de alunos, segundo o Ministério da Educação (MEC).

Nosso objetivo foi debater a forma como esse continente foi tratado pela Geografia escolar presente do livro didático. Nossa hipótese de trabalho é a de que o conteúdo sobre a África é tratado nos livros didáticos com um enfoque de dominação territorial de caráter colonial imperialista.

Remembering Africa & its Diasporas: Memory, Public History & Representations of the Past

A collection of essays concerned with the construction of memories and public histories.

It also explores the various dynamics that have shaped the way in which Africa and its diasporas have been viewed and chronicled outside of academia.

The chapters focus on how public perception are used both within Africa and within numerous African diasporas.

The essays are written by a broad range of authors from around the globe and discuss diasporas in Latin and North America, as well as the Caribbean.

Restless Nation: Making Sense of Troubled Times

Corruption has become quite rampant in South Africa.

The values that underpinned the ANC's liberation ideology appear to be collapsing and a new 'bling' culture, which has infected both politics and business, seems to be taking over.

William Gumede tackles these and other pressing issues head-on in his new book which brings together his best writing of the past three years.

Included are opinion pieces written for overseas publications such as The Guardian, The Independent and The New Statesman, which have never been published in South Africa before.

Shoe Shop: Walking through Africa, the Arts and Beyond

An experiment in imagining different paths - and talking in different tongues - on Africa, public art, migration, beauty, movement, exclusion, arrival, violence, stories, journeys, literature and inherent humanity; and the need to imagine different perspectives without forgetting your own.

It is a site for loitering, waiting, and for questions to be raised and answered later.

The book exists as a bridge between the project, Migration & Media (started in 2006 in Frankfurt am Main, Germany and its last iteration in Bamako in 2011), and an evolving Shoe Shop exhibition to be held in greater Johannesburg in May 2012, which will address walking and movement as literal and conceptual spaces.

Base de Dados

New ASC Library webdossier published

The Library, Documentation and Information Department of the African Studies Centre Leiden has compiled a web dossier (h) on 'Business & entrepreneurship in Africa' to coincide with the conference 'Africa Works! 21st Century Trends', organized by the ASC and the NABC on 29-30 October 2012 to celebrate their 65th anniversary.

The web dossier is based on the ASC library collection and contains titles of literature published since 2010 on economic conditions in Africa in general, small enterprises and entrepreneurship, investments and investment policy, and commercial and company law, as well as a selection of journals providing current economic and business information and statistical data.

Each title links directly to the corresponding record in the ASC library's online catalogue, (<http://opc-ascl.oclc.org:1080/DB=3/LNG=EN/>) which provides further bibliographic details, abstracts and links to full text if available. The dossier concludes with links to a number of relevant web sites.
