Conference “Catastrophe or catalyst? African and African Diasporas’ visions arising from World War One”, Bayreuth University, Germany

The academic staff of the sub-project “Narratives of Future” of Bayreuth Academy of Advanced African Studies organize a conference with a title “Catastrophe or catalyst? African and African Diasporas’ visions arising from World War One”. World War One was a critical juncture not only in European History.

Despite the renewed interest surrounding the 100th anniversary of the “Great War”, the global and especially the extra-European dimensions of this “seminal catastrophe” of the 20th century (Kennan) are still widely understudied.

This is particularly true for Africa, the continent second- most involved in the war, and for the African Diasporas in North America and Europe. Both took a more active part in the fighting as well as in the search for a new Africa than is commonly acknowledged.

The previously unimaginable scale of the conflict brought new experiences of warfare, mechanized violence and colonial power. But they also helped to generate new ideas and demands for political, economic and social change; the emergence new religious movements; and, radically altered visions of Africa’s future. For instance, the First World War can be seen as an important catalyst of visions ultimately leading to the end of colonial rule.

The focus of our conference bridges conventional divides in area studies, to bring together the experiences of both Africans and African Diasporas. This transcontinental approach will highlight previously obscured connections and experiences.

In the early twentieth century, activists and thinkers conceptualised Africans and African Diasporas as interconnected groups with a stake in a shared future.

In the African colonies and in South Africa, labour unions, popular and spiritual movements were also tackling ideas about race, imperialism and social order. Individual and collective experiences of the First World War have shaped and connected as well as disrupted these ideas.

We are interested in both historical and interdisciplinary approaches, to highlight the perspectives of Africans and African Diasporas arising from the First World War.

Africa Works! Conference, Leiden, The Netherlands

The African Studies Centre in Leiden, together with the Netherlands African Business Council (NABC) organizes the second 'Africa Works!' conference. It will take place in Leiden on October 16 and 17. The first conference (in Zeist, October 2012) attracted more than 500 participants from Africa and the Netherlands and a few from other countries.

This time we like to welcome more participants from European countries. Our colleagues from many African Studies Centres elsewhere tell us we are 'pioneering' in bringing together Africanists from academic institutes with practitioners from the business, media, NGO, policy and diplomatic worlds, so please come and have a look!

If you visit our website the home page now has an item about Africa Works! It also refers to the conference website > Registration for the conference will start in a few weeks from now!

The objective of Africa Works! 2014 is to explore the challenges and opportunities Africa poses to companies, government bodies, NGO's and knowledge centers through informing, inspiring, and expanding professional networks. The fee will be 395€ per person and of course there might be additional costs involved for travel and accommodation in or around Leiden (which you have to organize by yourselves).

We hope many of our AEGIS colleagues will indeed come to Leiden during those two days and we also hope you will facilitate some of your African colleagues to come as well! If you would like to play an active role in the conference, we would like to hear your creative suggestions!

IV Colóquio da Faculdade de Ciências Sociais da Universidade Agostinho Neto

A globalização é um processo de crescente interligação e interdependência económica, social, cultural e política. Com o estreitamento das distâncias países e continentes um país e o outro, através da utilização dos meios de transporte e da comunicação a todos níveis alcançado no final do século XX e início do século XXI, sociedades, países e continentes passaram a interligar-se cada vez mais frequentemente facilitando os negócios, o turismo e as trocas culturais, consequentemente com reflexos na política, economia e nas sociedades.

Como consequência do fenómeno hoje entendido por "globalização", verifica-se o aumento da concorrência e da competitividade de forma agressiva, naqueles segmentos de negócio considerados atractivos, associando desta forma a descontinuidade de determinadas empresas na manutenção das suas actividades.

Neste âmbito, a Faculdade de Ciências Sociais da Universidade Agostinho Neto promove a realização do seu IV Colóquio, subordinado ao tema: "Globalização, gestão e dinâmicas de desenvolvimento regional e local". Os interessados em apresentar comunicações devem inscrever-se junto da Comissão Organizadora, enviando título e resumo da comunicação, painel em que a comunicação se enquadra, e mencionando nome, grau académico, profissão e instituição a que pertence. As inscrições são realizadas até ao dia 30 de Setembro de 2014 e devem fazer-se para o endereço indicado abaixo.

GAPSYM8 – 8th Symposium of the Ghent Africa Platform, “Colonial memories at “present - decolonizing Belgium?, Ghent

The objectives of the 8th annual symposium of the Africa Platform are basically twofold: we want to shed light on the current post-colonial situation in Belgium and on the way Belgian society deals with its colonial history; in an attempt to analyze the relation between the colonial past and racism today.

In order to bring these two concerns — history and its present impact — into dialogue, the symposium’s organizers invite a wide range of contributors, from political scientists, jurists, urban planners, physicians, educationists and sociologists to engage in this conference.

Although the main focus is on African colonial past and Africans in Belgium, we welcome contributions that take on a comparative perspective and/or consider non-African population groups as well as the post-colonial situation in other contexts.

The 2014 autumn edition of our international and double-blind peer-reviewed journal Afrika Focus will largely be devoted to the theme of GAPSYM8. Regular speakers as well as guest speakers are invited to submit their papers for publication in this special issue of the journal.

The deadline for submitting the manuscript is 1 January 2015. If, after peer-review, the paper is accepted, it will be published by December 2015.

Brasil - A Segunda Guerra Mundial e a Construção do Brasil Moderno

Quando eclodiu a Segunda Guerra Mundial, em 1939, o Brasil parecia situar-se num outro mundo - paradisíaco, exuberante, remoto e subdesenvolvido. Mas esta imagem idealizada do Brasil mascarava uma realidade muito diversa que os líderes nacionais exploravam astutamente numa tentativa de assegurar o lugar do Brasil no mundo moderno. O autor desvendamos, com grande rigor e extraordinária vivacidade, a história deste país entre 1938 e 1945, e o seu secreto envolvimento na 2.ª Guerra Mundial.

Mostra-nos como, graças à percepção arguta que os dirigentes políticos brasileiros tiveram da importância estratégica do seu país e do interesse dos seus recursos naturais, tanto para as forças aliadas como para as do Eixo, e a aliança mais tarde estabelecida com os Estados Unidos, o Brasil passou de um país maioritariamente analfabeto, de infraestruturas precárias e bastante isolado do resto do mundo, a uma superpotência militar, económica e política da América Latina.

A Posição de Angola na Arquitectura de Paz e Segurança Africana

A presente obra, fruto de uma tese académica de doutoramento na Universidade Técnica de Lisboa, constitui uma abordagem sobre o desempenho das Forças Armadas de Angola na estabilização e desenvolvimento daquele país.

Mas o seu conteúdo materializa um instrumento para uma melhor compreensão daquela instituição nacional angolana e das suas realidades para as Forças Armadas portuguesas, facilitando o desenvolvimento da Cooperação Técnico-Militar, incluindo no quadro da CPLP.

Obra de grande atualidade e interesse para os que olham a CTM e a CPLP, como instrumentos estratégicos para a afirmação da lusofonia.

Preacher of Grace

Augustine of Hippo (354-430) became known as the ‘doctor of grace’. He developed his theory of divine grace mainly in his systematic treatises directed against the Pelagians (ca. 411-430). Did he however also preach about this complex, and at first sight ‘demoralizing’, issue in his sermons to the people?

In his previous book (BSCH 59), Anthony Dupont studied the profile of the treatment of gratia in the anti-Pelagian sermons ad populum. In a Preacher of Grace Dupont offers an account of the presence of the theme of grace in Augustine’s sermons not situated in the Pelagian controversy. This research provides a global picture of the presence and treatment of gratia in Augustine’s sermons and clarifies the interaction between context, audience and preaching genre on the one hand, and the theme of grace as a whole on the other. It also contributes to the debate on (dis)continuity in Augustine’s thought on grace.

Galinhas e cerveja: uma receita para o crescimento

Mocambique importa alimentos e ao mesmo tempo aqueles que os produzem continuam pobres porque a produção agrícola é muito baixa. A maioria das pessoas continua a cultivar a terra como faziam os seus avós. Mas desde o fim da guerra, há duas décadas, tem surgido um novo grupo de agricultores mais dinâmicos. Hoje contam-se já 68 000 pequenos e médios agricultores comerciais. Tal como os seus vizinhos, antigamente tinham apenas 1 hectare de terra e usavam a enxada como utensílio. Hoje cultivam entre 3 e 20 hectares e produzem principalmente para comercializar. Criaram emprego a nível da sua comunidade e estimulam a economia local.

Teresa Smart e Joseph Hanlon são os autores de Ha mais bicicletas, mas há desenvolvimento? Para este livro, eles analisaram mais de perto este grupo de produtores dinâmicos - mas que poucos conhecem - e mostram de que maneira eles se expandiram.

African Studies in the Digital Age. DisConnects?

African Studies in the Digital Age. DisConnects? seeks to understand the complex changes brought about by the digital revolution. The editors, Terry Barringer and Marion Wallace, have brought together librarians, archivists, researchers and academics from three continents to analyse the creation and use of digital research resources and archives in and about Africa.

The volume reveals new opportunities for research, teaching and access, as well as potential problems and digital divides.

Published under the aegis of SCOLMA (the UK Libraries and Archives Group on Africa), this new work is a major step forward in understanding the impact of the Internet Age for the study of Africa, in and beyond the continent.

Islamic Sufi Networks in the Western Indian Ocean (C.1880-1940)

In the period c. 1880-1940, organized Sufism spread rapidly in the western Indian Ocean. New communities turned to Islam, and Muslim communities turned to new texts, practices and religious leaders.

On the East African coast, the orders were both a vehicle for conversion to Islam and for reform of Islamic practice. The impact of Sufism on local communities is here traced geographically as a ripple reaching beyond the Swahili cultural zone southwards to Mozambique, Madagascar and Cape Town.

Through an investigation of the texts, ritual practices and scholarly networks that went alongside Sufi expansion, this book places religious change in the western Indian Ocean within the wider framework of Islamic reform.

Proverbs and the African Tree of Life

In Proverbs and the African Tree of Life Dorothy BEA Akoto-Abutiate juxtaposes chosen sayings from Proverbs and selected Ewe Folk proverbs using the agricultural metaphor of “grafting,” which she calls a “hermeneutic of grafting.”

Though these two sets of sayings come from completely different cultural contexts, Akoto argues that folk sayings/proverbs, which abound in Africa, should be considered as an already mature, established tree on to which a piece of the biblical tree is spliced or engrafted to produce hybridized fruits that have uniquely different tastes than the fruits of each tree individually.

This metaphorical grafting process allows the message of the Bible (in Proverbs) to be understood, imbibed and appropriated in Africa

Early Ibādī Theology. Six kalām texts by ‘Abd Allāh b. Yazīd al-Fazārī

Early Ibādī Theology presents the critical edition of six Arabic theological texts recently discovered in two manuscripts in Mzāb in Algeria dating from the middle of the 8th century.

The texts were sent by their author, the prominent Kūfan Ibādī kalām theologian ‘Abd Allāh b. Yazīd al-Fazārī to North Africa where he had a large following in the Ibādī community later known as the Nukkār.

They constitute the earliest extant body of Muslim kalām theology and are vital for the study of the initial development of rational theology in Islam.

The sophisticated treatment of the divine attributes in these texts indicates that this subject developed considerably earlier in Islamic theology than previously accepted in modern scholarship.

Are South Africans Free?

Despite South Africa's successful transition to democracy and lauded constitution, political freedom for the majority of South Africans remains elusive. The poor and unemployed majority are poorly represented and lack power and thus freedom. Under these conditions, the freedom of the privileged minority is also seriously impaired due to the costs of maintaining their relative security and well-being.

Lawrence Hamilton is an internationally-known political theorist, who has spent ten years teaching in South African universities. In this unique book he brings ideas - political and philosophical - to the fore to understand a contemporary political conundrum. He outlines the persistent, unresolved problems characterizing contemporary South Africa: poverty and quality of life statistics that are appalling for a middle-income country, levels of inequality that make South Africa one of the most unequal places in the world.

South Africa

At the heart of South Africa's 'miracle' transition from intractable ethno-racial conflict to democracy was an improvised nation born out of war weariness, hope, idealism and calculated pragmatism on the part of the elites who negotiated the compromise settlement. In the absence of any of the conventional bonds of national consciousness, the improvised nation was fixed on the civic identity and national citizenship envisaged in the new constitution.

In the 20th anniversary year of the country's democracy, South Africa reviews the progress of nation-building in post-apartheid South Africa, assesses how well the improvised nation has been embedded in a shared life for South Africans and offers a prognosis for its future. The book explains the abrupt discontinuity between the contributions of Nelson Mandela and Thabo Mbeki to nation-building and goes on to note the changing focus from reconciliation between black and white to include a concern for social cohesion in a society beset by violent crime, corruption and citizen deviance and dissidence.

Diasporas, Development and Peacemaking in the Horn of Africa

Exiled populations - who increasingly refer to themselves as diaspora communities - hold a strong stake in the fate of their countries of origin. In a world becoming ever more interconnected, they engage in 'long-distance politics' towards their homelands, send financial remittances and support social development in their communities of origin. Transnational diaspora networks have thus become global forces shaping the relationship between countries, regions and continents.

This important intervention, written by scholars working at the cutting edge of diaspora and conflict, challenges the conventional wisdom that diaspora are all too often warmongers, their time abroad causing them to become more militant in their engagement with local affairs. Featuring in-depth case studies from the Horn of Africa - including Somalia and Ethiopia - this volume presents an essential re-thinking of a key issue in African politics and development.

Africa-centred Knowledges. Crossing Fields and Worlds

Knowledge production is a highly political and politicized practice. This book questions the way in which knowledge of and about Africa is produced and how this influences development policy and practice.

Rebutting both Euro- and Afro-centric production of knowledge, this collection proposes a multiple, global and dynamic Africa-centredness in which scholars use whatever concepts and research tools are most appropriate to the different African contexts in which they work. In the first part of the book key conceptual themes are raised and the epistemological foundations are laid through questions of gender, literature and popular music.

The light thrown on the mechanics of how knowledge comes into being, and in whose interests, illuminates one of the key issues in African Studies.
