13th EASA Biennial Conference Collaboration, Intimacy & Revolution – innovation and continuity in an interconnected world, Tallinn, Estonia

Recent research has highlighted multifaceted processes of fragmentation and increasing inequalities in urban Africa.

While these trends have been related to and interpreted in terms of neoliberal transformations and new modes of (dis-)connectedness on global scales, their intimate and gendered dimensions have not attracted much attention.

This panel focuses on gendered dimensions of urban life that are characterized by intimate collaborations in various spheres, including the family, kin or peer group, friends and sexual relations, private habitations, as well as work places, public spaces, political organizations or other kinds of 'strategic groups'.

People's intimate relations - or the curtailing of intimacy through forms of avoidance and segregation - result in complementing or competing patterns of activities and movements which may have different meanings and relevance for urban dwellers' every-day and night-lives.

In our panel we want to examine how the gendered dimensions of intimate collaborations contribute to shaping urban spaces.

We invite empirically grounded papers that address this topic from various angles and perspectives.

3rd Biennial Kwame Nkrumah Conference, Vancouver, Canada

The 3rd Biennial Kwame Nkrumah Conference is to be held at Kwantlen Polytechnic University (KPU) in Vancouver, Canada. The conference, which is being jointly organized by Kwantlen Polytechnic University (KPU), Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology (KUMASI, Ghana) and Lincoln University (Pennsylvania, USA), and is expected to attract leading scholars from all over the world.

The theme of the conference is "Re-engaging the African Diasporas: Pan-Africanism in the Age of Globalization". The interdisciplinary conference will provide a platform for scholars and students from educational institutions from across the globe to share ideas on how to pool resources and to provide a synergy of knowledge, efforts, projects and programs in Africa and throughout the African world community that are designed to develop the intellectual, social, economic as well as cultural life opportunities of people of African heritage.

The conference will provide a platform to map out development strategies within and outside the frameworks of Africa's development instruments, such as the New Partnership for Africa's Development (NEPAD), the United Nations' Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) and the Africa Union's Sixth Region Project.

KNIC3 invites submissions from international and Canadian scholars, graduate and undergraduate students in any Canadian and foreign institutions of higher learning, as well as members of Non-Governmental Organizations and Civic Society Organizations (NGOs and CSOs).

Nordic Africa Days 2014 | Misbehaving States and Behaving Citizens? Questions of Governance in African States, Uppsala, Sweden

The Nordic Africa Days (NAD) is the biannual conference of the Nordic Africa Institute organised for the past 15 years in the Nordic Countries, with participants representing the state of the art in African Studies and Africa related knowledge production.

The Nordic Africa Days 2014 has a thematic focus on different assumptions of governance.

It cuts across research topics covering most African developments and processes, including, but not restricted to, conflict, security and democratic transformations; rural and agrarian changes, properties and resources; urban dynamics; and African international links in the global world. It is thus clearly multidisciplinary. This theme goes beyond the common reading of governance in political science or international relations.

It aims to connect the formal state with other non-state forms of governance. Often, the state is discussed as an evil entity preying on its ethical citizens.

Citizens are then described as the victims of state power. But are states not run by the same people that, looking at it from the opposite angle, are viewed as victims? The conference is particularly inviting panels discussing governance in different ways. The suggested panels should not just be looking at the state structures and sub-national government levels, but also at the formulation and governance in alternative structures such as ethnic and religious groups and socio-economic networks.

Conference “African Thoughts on (Neo-) Colonial Worlds: Steps towards an Intellectual History of Africa”, University of Vienna, Austria

“African Thoughts on (Neo-) Colonial Worlds: Steps towards an Intellectual History of Africa” brings together several interrelated domains rarely associated with our neighboring continent, mainly the history of its ideas and its thinkers. Asking for Africa’s role in shaping the world of the twentieth century and its world view, the conference connects the global historical questioning of colonialism and imperialism with the interests of intellectual history.

Intellectual history is a field still primarily connected with Western thought. During the last two decades there was a move towards a more globally informed kind of perspective which had some successes (extending its focus to include Asian thinkers), but Africa is still rarely treated in those debates and African thinkers tend to be marginalized or ignored in their originality.

It is time to challenge this state of affairs, for African thinkers of the twentieth century have had a lot to say about the nature and causes of global inequality – and they still do. Contributions shall approach their topics from one of the two perspectives described below.

The conference shall lead to a comparative view on their differing analysis of colonial and neo-colonial world orders. Submission of abstracts: 30.04.2014.

The Obama Administration Africa Doctrine

In this abridged guide, readers can expect to: Know what the priorities and goals are for the United States as they relate to dealing with sub Saharan African nations.

In the 19th Century, President James Monroe established a policy announcing that the United States would not interfere or intervene with European colonies during a time when many were declaring their independence from their colonizers.

That strategy became known as the Monroe Doctrine and since then any general presidential policy as it relates to interrelation with sovereign nations could be interpreted as that doctrine.

In 2013, during a weeklong visit to Africa, United States President Barack Obama, a son of Africa himself, laid out the US course of action for interacting and working with sub Saharan African nations. In this digest guide, readers learn what that policy, The Africa Doctrine, is.

Daddy

Men who are Senior Citizens can be quite interesting. There are quite a few who are tired and simply want to enjoy a deserved rest by the side of their old wives. There are others who still have much energy and want to remain very active.

The worst among these are those who spent their youth deprived of any form of excitement. This could have been either because they lacked the opportunities, or were too shy and withdrawn to look for fun. Now, with the funds available and women at their disposal, they insist on catching up with lost time.

Daddy is a hilarious book for old men and women. However, since all the young men and women of today will grow old someday, they should have a go at having an exciting life and prepare themselves to best enjoy the escapades of men who are on the leeward side of life.

Acacia

Acacia is a strong and independent woman whose heart and heritage like rooted in Africa, while her reality in contemporary America finds itself in a very different time and place.

In living her life, she must breach the distance between her current space and the ties that bind her.

Straddling two sometimes opposing worlds of medicine and dance, Dr Acacia Graeme must find the balance between feeding her mind through work and study, and nourishing her soul and spirit through dance.

And what happened when the music stops? Because it does, often. How will she get through the silence of her every day? This is the story of a flawed heroine whose intentions are pure, her truth perhaps less so.

Africa in Narratives

Africa in Narratives illuminates or proves, against the backdrop of attitudes toward nations deemed 'ethnic' or 'minorities', that literature in Africa can live up to the challenge of aesthetic imagination to form an active, refreshing part of world cultural discourse.

African countries have evolved imaginatively beyond their present ephemeral stages of social and political turmoil not to talk of intellectual imitations of western thought, nation literatures should be subject to the imperative of a continental cooperation.

African Rhythms. New Approaches to Literature

With new integrative and indigenous approaches to literary affairs the focus of this volume is on the influence of tradition in African writing.

Using the work of Chinua Achebe two scholars from outside Africa offer insight on oratorical devices in modern African fiction, two chapters follow which, by fusing traditional elements in transitional societies, illustrate the cultural awareness that touch on the exalted role of the artist in their communities.

The post colonial rhetoric also continues with echoes of political commitment on modern poetry - town issues in the discourse of Africa's literary progress in the last decade.

The growing concern for African youth development is at the heart of a dialogue with children's fiction writer Anezi Okoro.

A People Betrayed

Events in Rwanda in 1994 mark a landmark in the history of modern genocide. Up to one million people were killed in a planned public and political campaign. In the face of indisputable evidence, the Security Council of the United Nations failed to respond.

In this classic of investigative journalism, Linda Melvern tells the compelling story of what happened. She holds governments to account, showing how individuals could have prevented what was happening and didn't do so. The book also reveals the unrecognised heroism of those who stayed on during the genocide, volunteer peacekeepers and those who ran emergency medical care.

Fifteen years on, this new edition examines the ongoing impact of the 1948 Genocide Convention and the shock waves Rwanda caused around the world.

The Economic Roots of Conflict and Cooperation in Africa

The Economic Roots of Conflict and Cooperation in Africa explores how the development strategies of African nations shape the nature and dynamics of inter-group violence.

The overview chapter assesses development doctrines, patterns of development, and levels and nature of violence in both North Africa and Sub-Saharan Africa.

Focusing on eleven countries, the case-study contributions explore the immediate and long-term impacts of development initiatives on reducing or increasing inter-group conflict and violence.

They demonstrate the importance of evolving identities as economic roles and conditions change. These insights can guide policymakers, development professionals, and activists committed to conflict-sensitive development.

Gender Equality Norms in Regional Governance

This book investigates the diffusion of gender equality norms in and between the European Union (EU), South America and Southern Africa. It offers an in-depth analysis of the trajectories of norms on gender-based violence and gender mainstreaming of aid and trade.

The study proposes a novel theoretical framework that enables scholars to grasp the constant renegotiation of gender equality norms in the dynamics between transnational, national and (inter) regional actor constellations.

Moving beyond the predominant 'global-local' approach, it conceptualizes norm diffusion as a multidirectional and polycentric process.

The empirical chapters show how new geometries of transnational activism have developed.

Entre África e a Europa - Nação, Estado e Democracia em Cabo Verde

Estelivro fornece uma leitura global dos fenómenos e dos processos políticos em Cabo Verde, desde os primórdios da independência nacional, passando pelo período da institucionalização do regime autoritário, até o advento da democracia multipartidária.

A obra visa indagar duas questões interdependentes: (i) revisitar, numa perspetiva longitudinal, os eixos estratégicos da política externa cabo-verdiana, perscrutando as mudanças, rupturas, permanências e eventuais (des) continuidades verificadas na acção diplomática do país na encruzilhada atlântica entre a África, a Europa e as Américas; e, por outro lado, (ii) avaliar o impacto da terceira vaga de democratização e cotejar as variações no desempenho institucional e na qualidade da democracia cabo-verdiana.

Stringer: A Reporter's Journey in the Congo

In the powerful travel-writing tradition of Ryszard Kapuscinski and V.S. Naipaul, a haunting memoir of a dangerous and disorienting year of self-discovery in one of the world's unhappiest countries.

Sundaram left the calm, logical world of mathematics and a job offer from Goldman Sachs for the chaos of the Congo and the uncertainties of journalism. The combination was unpromising, as “few cared . . . for news” of the Congo. Then he lucked into a position as a stringer with the Associated Press, reporting on harrowing struggles to exploit wealthy metal reserves, conflicts between the militia and rebels, political corruption, street riots by bands of wild boys, and insane inflation that sent Kinshasa citizens on a “rampage of purchases.” Surviving paycheck to paycheck, Sundaram lived with a local Congo family and navigated the worlds of the embassy, foreign journalists, and the Indian community. On a daring trip upriver, he risked his life to interview a warlord fighting for control of valuable territory and stayed in Kinshasa to report on postelection chaos as other reporters fled. >Vanessa Bush

Feathers in Reverse

Feathers in Reverse is the ideal gift for a loved one who is scared of poetry. It engages and immerses readers with the luring subtlety of a serpent.

Themes treated include good and evil, heaven and earth, man and woman, birth and death, urbanism and rural life, wealth and poverty.

As much as the poet highlights salient issues and conflicts in everyday life, he suggests answers to burning problems as well. A common thread runs through the over 300 poems feathered and featured in this collection.

The notion of the 'feather' is cross-cultural. It reminds us of the feather used as a pen in ancient Europe and the 'red feather' that is stuck on the caps of African notables as a mark of distinction. Feathers in Reverse is a magic pudding to be sampled, shared and indulged.

Back to Angola

In 1987, Paul Morris went to Angola as a reluctant conscripted soldier, where he experienced the fear and filth of war. Twenty-five years later, in 2012, Paul returned to Angola, and embarked on a 1500-kilometre cycle trip, solo and unsupported, across the country. His purpose was to see Angola in peacetime, to replace the war map in his mind with a more contemporary peace map, to exorcise the ghosts of war once and for all.

Paul's journey starts at Cuito Cuanavale, the scene of one of the last major battles involving South African forces, where he meets a Cuban contractor who fought to defend Cuito Cuanavale at the same time that Paul was with the SADF forces advancing on it. From there on, the narrative shifts between Paul's vivid memories of the war and his experiences in peacetime Angola.

Back to Angola is an honest, intelligent and deeply moving account of war and its effects on an individual mind, a generation of people, and the psyche and landscape of a country.

Onde está Têi-Têi? Galeria de retratos de Moçambique

«Logo no primeiro capítulo descobrimos quem é Têi-Têi, mas é ao longo dos restantes capítulos que acompanhamos as suas aventuras envolvidas nas suas traquinices, enquanto se desenrolam à nossa frente, as histórias dos diferentes personagens e as diferentes situações que caracterizaram também Moçambique numa época conturbada, no fim da década de sessenta até 1975.

As situações vividas e as personagens descritas através dos olhos de uma menina com menos de 12 anos, retratam histórias entusiasmantes, com a candura própria de uma criança sensível mas ávida por viver, por descobrir o que está por de trás dos caniçais, das aldeias com as suas palhotas, do embondeiro, do forro do tambor, da pele do animal que se expõe sob o sol escaldante da savana africana...

Leitura singular, singela, muito sui generis, de retratos de norte a sul, por terras de Moçambique.»

Cambridge Journal of Postcolonial Literary Inquiry. African Studies Abstracts: number 46, 2014

The Cambridge Journal of Postcolonial Literary Inquiry is a new peer-review journal that aims to deepen our grasp of postcolonial literary history while enabling us to stay comprehensively informed of all critical developments in the field.

The journal will provide a forum for publishing research covering the full spectrum of postcolonial critical readings and approaches, whether these center on established or lesser known postcolonial writers or draw upon fields such as Modernism, Medievalism, Shakespeare and Victorian Studies that have hitherto not been considered central to postcolonial literary studies, yet have generated some of the best insights on postcolonialism.

ASA Online provides a quarterly overview of journal articles and edited works on Africa in the field of the social sciences and the humanities available in the ASC library.

Among the Mende in Sierra Leone
The letters from Sjoerd Hofstra (1934-36)

Edited and translated by
Marjolke Gijswijt-Hofstra

Among the Mende in Sierra Leone: the letters from Sjoerd Hofstra (1934-36)

This book offers a unique look behind the scenes of anthropological fieldwork amongst the Mende in Sierra Leone in the mid-1930s. The Dutch anthropologist and sociologist Sjoerd Hofstra (1898-1983), Rockefeller research fellow of the International Institute of African Languages and Cultures and one of Bronislaw Malinowski's three 'Mandarins' (as were also Meyer Fortes and S. Frederick Nadel), reports in long, bi-weekly letters to his adoptive mother about his experiences with the Mende.

During his first stay in Sierra Leone (January 1934 - March 1935), Hofstra got blackwater fever, a complication of malaria tropica. His second stay (May - September 1936) came to an untimely end because he again developed symptoms of blackwater fever and was advised to return to Europe. Because of this his fieldwork remained unfinished, and Hofstra never got round to publishing the planned book on the Mende.

Exposições e outras...

Exposição “África Reencontrada”

Inaugurou no dia 26 de Março, no Museu Nacional de Arqueologia, a exposição “África Reencontrada”, o ritual e o sagrado em duas coleções públicas portuguesas, comissariada cientificamente pelas Dras. Ana Isabel Santos e Ana Cristina Martins, do MNA (Museu Nacional de Arqueologia) e IICT, respectivamente.

Nesta exposição, que resultou da parceria entre o MNA e IICT (Instituto de Investigação Científica Tropical), são apresentados ao público várias peças que fazem parte dos acervos destas instituições, pertencentes à esfera mágico-religiosa e à de simbologia de poder. As peças do IICT foram recolhidas durante uma campanha de investigação científica na Guiné, nos anos 40 do séc. XX, e as do MNA resultam de aquisições do fundador do museu, José Leite de Vasconcelos.

O MNA foi fundado em 1893 por José Leite de Vasconcelos, com a designação de “Museu Etnográfico Português” e dotado de um programa em que passado e presente, arqueologia e etnologia, se procuravam reunir num só conceito comunicacional, o actual Museu Nacional de Arqueologia (MNA) mantém no essencial o propósito programático que esteve na sua origem, reduzindo-o, porém, em termos cronológicos. O museu encontra-se aberto de 3.ª feira à domingo das 10h00 às 18h00.

Formação

2014 Mozambique Country Training on Resource Mobilization, Project Planning and Proposal Writing

The 2014 Mozambique Country Training on Resource Mobilization, Project Planning and Proposal Writing will be held from May 12th to 16th, 2014 at the Caritas Moçambicana, which is located on Rua Da Resistencia Nr 1173 – Malhangalene, Maputo. This training has been organized by Regional Partnership for Resource Development (REPARED).

The training is part of the Regional Partnership for Resource Development capacity building programme on Resource Mobilization, Community Development and Project Management aimed at mediating organizational development constraints through improved skills and knowledge.

This training is the First Module to be organized within the framework of the new capacity-building programme and aimed at making participants more confident in their ability to raise resource and manage their organizations and projects more efficiently and effectively. The training aims at enabling organizations in the Region in mobilizing resources and building-up their capacity to fundraise more effectively for priority projects and facilitate the implementation of their activities.

Diploma in Resource Mobilization, Organizational Development and Project Management

This training is part of the Four Modules leading to the attainment of a Diploma in Resource Mobilization, Organizational Development and Project Management.

The Diploma is awarded by the International Institute of Fundraising in collaboration with Shareworld University.
